

Stratford Evening Post, 26 June 1926

Very good progress is being made by the contractor, Mr J. W. Boon, with the erection of the block of buildings for Broadway Buildings, Ltd. It is expected that the concrete work for the first floor will be finished next week. The building, for which Mr John D. Healy is the architect, will be up-to-date in every respect. There will be three shops on the ground floor while the upper storey will be divided into offices, and will include a boardroom in which meetings can be held.

Stratford Evening Post | 31 March 1926 |

The remains of the building owned by the Broadway Buildings Limited which were recently destroyed by fire, are at present in course of removal. They will be replaced by a thoroughly up-to-date structure, the erection of which will be carried out by Mr J. W. Boon. Mr J. D. Healy is the architect.

Stratford Evening Post | 24 September 1926 |

The contractor, Mr J. W. Boon, is making good progress with the building he is erecting for the Broadway Buildings Ltd. The plate glass has now be put in, and the plasterers are at work. The interior fittings are also being placed in position.