FIBROUS PLASTER WORKS DEVON ST. WEST

SEVERAL of the homes on the Government housing site at Brooklands having been completed are now ready for occupation, and others in the group which are now being finished off will follow in quick succession. Each of the houses is quite distinctive in style and all have been well planned to provide the utmost comfort, and incorporate the latest modern trends in interior layout and design, with ample built-in conveniences such as cupboards and wardrobes. The timber and other materials used are of the highest quality obtainable and no expense has been spared in the provision of the necessary equipment.

All the homes have electric ranges and two of the most renowned makes have been installed—"Atlas" ranges as supplied by Scott Bros., Ltd., of Christchurch, and "Neco" ranges by the National Electrical Company, Wellington. There is also a 24-hour efficient electrical hot-water service. A noticeable feature of the fittings is the selection of special Whip-o-Lite lamp shades, which are all the vogue at present and have been supplied for the houses by Aladdin Industries, Ltd., Wellington. The construction of these new houses has been carried out with a high degree of efficiency by the well-known firm of Jones and Sandford, Ltd.; the plumbing, which includes most attractive bathroom equipment, has been in the hands of F. D. McIntyre, Ltd., while the installation and wiring for the electrical fittings, which are of the latest type, have been carried out by Mr. C. Drury. The fibrous plaster work was done by Martin Bros. (N.P.), Ltd., the painting and the artistic scheme of interior decoration by Darby and Hannan, Ltd. All the bricklaying was carried out by Morris and Son, while the important contract for the reading which provides the access to these new houses was accomplished by Fitzroy Quarries, Ltd.

BUILDING BETTER HOMES!

—THAT'S OUR PURPOSE!

We built the State Houses in New Plymouth... and we built them with the same care, same quality materials, same expert craftsmanship, and with the same regard to detail which has characterised every Home or other Building erected by us in the years we have been in business. For any building job consult the firm that has such an aim—better building, better service, better value to the buyer.
