

SAVE THE ARCADIA HOTEL BUILDING

Stop the New Plymouth District Council from demolishing our heritage.

SAVE THE ARCADIA HOTEL BUILDING

The Arcadia Hotel building is one of the last multi storey wooden buildings in our city's central business district.

The building is owned by the New Plymouth District Council. That's us, the ratepayers.

There is no current requirement for the site occupied by the building. It will be demolished and an empty space or car park will take its place.

The decision to demolish this building was made in a public excluded council meeting, and the demolition contract awarded immediately. Demolition work has already started.

Why can't the building be left until a valid use for the site is agreed upon, or perhaps incorporate the building into the new Museum development. It is after all part of New Plymouth's history.

This building has a place in our city's urban redevelopment.

Its survival needs your support – NOW!

Please Council, consider ALL the options.
